RETAKES are Wednesday, November 30th (the school calendar stating the 29th is incorrect). If you are not satisfied with your child's picture or if your child was absent, your child may have his/her picture retaken. Please bring back the while packaged of unwanted pictures and pick up an order form in the front office. Remember, this is not a free dress day.

Students must bring their uniform to change into after the photos are taken.

We are getting to that time of year when sometimes we feel out of control. We need to buy this, we need to do this, we need to visit this person... so many things to do, and then BAM! something that we really didn't need to happen in our lives does. Many times stressors in our adult lives create anxiety. And, what do many of us want to do? Talk about it. What I ask you to consider is whom you include in the conversation. Children have worries of their own; they do not need adult worries. We hear children worried about money, jobs, and other things that they have no control over. When you get anxious about something, don't pass it on to your children. They have a keen sense of your mood and feelings, so try to be positive as often as you can. At the very least, save the adult talk for after your child's bedtime. Happy Thanksgiving, everyone! There are tons of gifts from God for which to be grateful!
